Digta 7 Stand-alone Kit

All-in-one kit for dictation and transcription work – without PC connection

Easy dictation – the Digta 7

The Digta 7 is comfortable and easy to use. In “Easy Mode” the functions on the display are reduced to the essentials. Especially users who come from the analog dictation industry appreciate this function and the intuitive operation.

Direct forwarding of dictations

No installation or integration into IT structures is required for transcription of dictations in the secretary’s office. Simply dictate on the go and pass the dictation device to the secretary. The dictation is listened to directly from the Digta Station. That’s all.

Docking station becomes a transcription workstation

The headphones and foot control are connected to the docking station. Listening and rewinding of dictations is done as usual with cassette dictations, only the playback quality is better. Each dictation is individually selectable on the dictation device and can be deleted after completion.

Autonomous and compatible with all systems

The Digta 7 stand-alone kit is free from all the restrictions of your IT department regardless of whether you are working with Windows, MacOS or Linux or whether the USB ports are blocked for security reasons. The stand-alone kit does not require a PC connection. The dictations are listened to directly from the dictation device in the docking station and can be transcribed in any program.

Transcription workstation

The Digta Swingphone 568 GBS is included to the transcription workstation. These headphones with under-the-chin band are directly connected to the docking station. Playback on the dictation device is conveniently controlled by foot control, which is also directly connected to the docking station.

Expands with your needs

The Digta 7 stand-alone kit does not require any software and is therefore particularly inexpensive to purchase. If your requirements grow within your company, so does your dictation solution. The DigtaSoft workflow software and the DigtaSoft Voice speech recognition solution can be easily retrofitted whenever you want. We will be happy to advise you!
